DISPUTE RESOLUTION TECHNIQUES FOR TRIBAL JUSTICE SYSTEMS

APRIL 20-23, 2009 IN RENO, NV

Tuition: $985 • Conference Fee: $235

In this course, tribal judges and peacemakers will examine the sources of knowledge that influence traditional forms of dispute resolution, discuss the challenges tribes face incorporating traditional practices in tribal law, and create an action plan to implement in their courts. Participants will share ideas, experiences, and perspectives on tribal peacemaking processes in daily talking circles.

Qualifies as an elective for the Certificate in Judicial Development, Tribal Judicial Skills program.

THE NATIONAL TRIBAL JUDICIAL CENTER

The National Tribal Judicial Center is one of the first institutions to address the specific needs of Native American and Alaska Native tribal law judiciaries. The curricula presented are innovative, sophisticated and designed to enhance the professional skills of tribal judges and personnel.
